Redistribution of unpaid care work
CFP No. 2020-01 GRG

Section 4: UN Women Terms of Reference

I. Introduction

UN Women, grounded in the vision of equality enshrined in the Charter of the United Nations, works for the elimination of discrimination against women and girls; the empowerment of women; and the achievement of equality between women and men as partners and beneficiaries of development, human rights, humanitarian action and peace and security.

According to the Evaluation of the National Action Plan for Gender Equality 2016-2018, the area of the NAP where Republic of Serbia has progressed very little is in changing gender-related patterns and upgrading the culture of gender equality. Transformation of gender relations in parenting and economy of care is highly relevant in view of the fact that this is an area of very persistent gender inequalities which most strongly opposes changes, but its relevance and significance are still insufficiently recognized among gender equality mechanisms. The Final Report on the Evaluation of the NAP for GE 2016-2018 stresses that the equal participation of women and men in parenting and economy of care should be expanded especially to the caring activities.

In order to address this burning issue, UN Women Programme Office in Serbia started with the implementation of the project "Gender Responsive Governance", funded by the UK Good Governance Fund, that will strengthen the institutional and technical capacities of the National Gender Equality Mechanisms to develop policies and measures that will lead to changing patterns of parenting obligations and unpaid household work in the Republic of Serbia, by combining economic, employment and social policies. The proposed actions include pilot initiatives for equal participation of women and men in the economy of care. Furthermore, the project will work towards establishing a real and permanent dialogue between the national machineries and the key stakeholders, especially women's groups and will facilitate creation of wide platform of alliances for women's empowerment and commitment to changing the gender stereotypes. Political change will be driven at the national and local level and will rely on the results of policy dialogues and replication of the successful pilot initiatives in the care economy which will be reinforced by advocating to include these measures in the local budgets and in the private sector.

The project will focus on ensuring that governance framework on care economy advances gender equality and social justice through following results:

- Result 1: National Gender Equality Mechanisms have capacities to develop policies and lead a dialogue on gender responsive governance.
- Result 2: Women's CSOs, national and local governments and private sector pilot initiatives for redistributing and valuing care services.

Through this assignment, civil society organizations that have gender equality and women's rights set as one of the organization's goals in Statute will be supported to identify, test and track the implementation of policy local initiatives that can unlock change in unpaid care work which will be at the end integrated in the local municipalities' budget.

There is a wide range of opportunities that can unlock change towards more equally distributed care work in Serbia: investment in public infrastructure, in basic services and transportation; enhancing the scope and quality of care services and introducing new public services or change the way public services are provided; advocacy actions towards improving government employment policies to support care work, making unpaid care work more visible in public dialogues and statistics, creating local government budgets around priority measures that promote equal opportunities for women and men in this area and adequately monitor their implementation. Supported initiatives should lead to the introduction of new and adjustments of existing policies that will ensure that the allocation of public resources is carried out in ways that are effective and contribute to women's empowerment and will have a positive impact in a shift to the economy of care and consequently will trigger changes of social norms and attitudes. In line with this, organizations are invited to design and implement proposals in an innovative and effective way

II. Description of required services/expected results

The objective of this present Call for Proposal is to expand the impact of the project "Gender Responsive Governance" in the framework of its Result 2:

Women's CSOs, national and local governments and private sector pilot initiatives for redistributing and valuing care services.

In this way, it seeks to better realize and help identifying opportunities and entry points for influencing and redistributing unpaid care work through targeted gender transformative policy interventions at the local level.

Women CSOs should contribute to the achievement of the above-mentioned result through the implementation of the project that address the following issues:

- Invisibility of unpaid care and domestic work as valuable work;
- Challenging social norms that promote unequal sharing of care work between women and men;
- Advocating and pushing for the policies and investments needed to reduce and redistribute women's care work.

Priority will be given to proposals in which the provision of support is foreseen in partnership with local partners and local institutions, taking into account the needs of women and men that undertake unpaid care work in the local communities. Solid local partnerships are crucial in order to adequately pilot a range of local level policy and budgetary initiatives that can contribute to the redistribution of unpaid care work and increase the accessibility of services to women and men by overcoming the barriers in availability of services, affordability, geographical accessibility, suitability of working hours, reducing costs of particular expenditures etc.

Selected women CSOs will be supported to identify, develop and implement innovative local policy initiatives for redistributing unpaid care work in different local municipalities. Activities that may be financed under this Call for Proposals include, but are not limited to:

- Supporting activities of women cooperatives and social enterprises, promoting and implementing flexible arrangements for equal distribution of unpaid care work;
- Supporting pilot community-based initiatives, established for contribution to equal distribution of unpaid care work;
- Development of solution to the private sector in providing/initiating day-care for dependent family members and introduce flexible working arrangements for informal caregivers and self-supported parents
- Support developing initiatives in public transport that will that increase accessibilities of kindergartens, or provide extra hours or additional coverage of informal caregivers, self-supported parents, rural families etc
- Development of initiatives for alternative /community based/ innovative In-house support and day-care services
- Support for men to be included in care work, and fathers in childcare;
- Other.

It is expected to create pilot initiatives that are synchronised with other reforms, such as public finance reform and gender responsive budgeting, by strongly advocating and including effective ones in the municipal budgets, thus creating a sustainable base for upscaling. Pilot initiatives should make the unpaid care work more visible in public dialogues and statistics and raise awareness how targeted policy measures can support the redistribution of care responsibilities between women and men.

Therefore, CSOs are expected to develop and pilot measures to find sustainable and transformative solutions to ensure: 1) reduction of difficult care work from women to men; 2) equal redistribution of responsibility, costs and work of care provided by specialized public services in partnerships with CSOs; 3) greater engagement of private sector in providing affordable care services.

CSOs are expected to submit proposals with clear and specific statement of what the proposal will accomplish, description of implementation strategy, budget and other details, as per requirements stated in Annex B2 to this Call for Proposals (Template).

III. Deliverables

Under the project, the selected CSOs will be responsible for the delivery of the following:

up of pilot initiatives in the local communities; e) support inclusion of the successful initiatives in the municipal budgets that could lead to unlocking policy changes in this area;
